The Center for Justice & Accountability Presents:

October 1, 2018
6:30 PM

———————

Google
Community Space
San Francisco

Blockchain in the Changing Landscape of Human Rights

Please join CJA's Professional Network for Human Rights for a happy hour, followed by a panel discussion and Q&A on emerging blockchain & cryptocurrency use cases in the human rights space. Experts from Stellar, Blockstate, BlueVista, The Center for Justice and Accountability, and Stanford Law will share their insights, focusing on how the overlap of human rights and blockchain technology can lead to new solutions for both fields.

Where: Google Community Space - 188 The Embarcadero (enter on Steuart Street), San Francisco
When: Monday, October 1, 2018 - 6:30/Appetizers & Donation Bar 7:30/Program
How Much: $10 donation suggested
How To: All attendees must register through Eventbrite REGISTER
Panel:

Chris Chan, Blockstate, Co-Founder

Carmen Cheung, The Center for Justice & Accountability, Legal Director

Lindsay Lin, Stellar, Counsel and Program Manager

Michael Schmitz, BlueVista, Co-Founder

Steven Nam, Stanford Journal of Blockchain Law & Policy, Managing Editor (Moderator)

Light appetizers will be served and there will be a donation bar. All event proceeds will go directly to The Center for Justice & Accountability. Check out the event on Facebook and share with friends!

Sincerely,

CJA's Professional Network for Human Rights

#20YearsCJA